ANTHONY C. OKOYE

Country: Nigeria
School: CCAS
Level: Graduate Student

Anthony is a graduate student from Nigeria pursuing a master’s degree in Data Science. He holds an undergraduate degree in Engineering. Anthony understands the challenges many international students encounter in a new environment, having faced most himself. As an ISCA, he seeks to promote a supportive and vibrant communal experience for international students in GW.

Beyond his passion for crunching numbers and analyzing data, he holds a deep-rooted interest in the economics of sport. He avidly follows five different sports leagues across four continents, with a particular focus on the Premier League, National Rugby League, Indian Premier League, and Major League Baseball.

You can almost always count Anthony in, if you ever want to watch a game or dive into a spirited conversation about the illogicalities of sports finance.